Patient's Previously-Worn Frame Release Form

There are a few things we would like you to know before we put new lenses in your old frame.

1. Although we use the utmost care when manufacturing and inserting lenses in our patients' pre-worn frames, occasionally an older frame will break in the process. Plastic materials become brittle and solder points on metal frames can weaken with wear.
2. We cannot be responsible if breakage occurs during the process of putting new lenses in your old frames.
3. Frame manufacturers regularly discontinue old frame styles as they launch new ones. Because of this, we may have difficulty obtaining replacement parts for your old frame if it breaks in the future.
4. Your prescription lenses are an investment in your good vision. Because of this, we highly recommend that you order them placed in a new, quality frame.

Please sign below if you if you have read and understand our recommendations and policies regarding the use of your previously-worn frame and still choose to have us put your new lenses in your old frame.
